SHAPE OF THINGS TO COME IN THE NEW YEAR OF 1965

PORTERVILLE, Dec. 31—Looking into the new year of 1965, it is just more than possible that the following will come to pass:

A general plan of development for the community of Porterville will become a reality.

The 65 freeway plan for the stretch west of Porterville will be completed and made official.

Plans will be completed and possibly ground broken for Porterville's new, second high school.

School districts in Tulare county may become unified.

A parking district in downtown Porterville will be formed and working.

Franchise for cable TV in Porterville will be approved.

Ground may be broken for a new, regional shopping center in Porterville.

Beckman Instruments, Inc. will start operation in a new Porterville plant.

The Jackass Mail will again get through to Springville.

Farmers, and business men, plus all and sundry hereabouts will be reduced to political outcasts and beggars by reapportionment.

The land boom will continue at Terra Bella and points south and north.

Springville will move into a new era with completion of its sewage disposal system.

There will be some face changing on the Porterville city council following the April election.

FOSTER EDWARDS' ORCH.

WHAT'S NEXT?

FOSTER EDWARDS, who qualifies as a "local boy" in Tulare, Lindsay and Porterville, and who is a brother of Jeff and Glenn Edwards of Porterville, has released a record of his original modern music compositions, "What's Next". The music is played by Edward's 15-piece band that has its permanent home in the Circus Room of the Sparks Nugget in east Reno. One of the numbers, Bertha's Waltz, was composed for the elephants that are an attraction of the Circus room and that have appeared several times on the Hollywood Palace TV show, using Edwards' music for their accompaniment. Above photo shows the record album - with Bertha and Tina, the elephants, and their trainer, Jenda Smaha, featured; at left is Foster, as taken by Brother Glenn at the family home in Tulare during the Christmas Holidays.

Foster Edwards And His Band Release Record From Circus Room In Sparks Nugget, Reno, Nevada

By Bill Rodgers

Porterville can claim — well, almost claim — another successful young man, this one in the field of modern music, Foster Edwards, by name, who, with his 15-piece band, has just released a record album of his own compositions from his professional home, the Circus Room in the Sparks Nugget, East Reno, Nevada. The title, "What's Next?"

Edwards, who was born in Lindsay, moved at the age of nearly one year to a ranch near Tulare (with his family, natch) then, after growing up and attending school in Tulare, hit the music trail, pausing briefly in Porterville to join Brother Jeff when he opened Edwards' Studio in the late 1940s.

(Jeff says be sure and mention that the Edwards' album is for sale at Edwards Studio and at Byron Wade's, but of course we can't put an advertising plug like that into what is supposed to pass as a news story. Might get accused of payola.)

Actually, the Edwards' were a musical family. Foster played the clarinet, later the sax; Jeff, the trumpet; Papa Glenn, now the noted photographer of Edwards Studio, the xylophone; Brother Clyde,

PUBLISHED WEEKLY — PORTERVILLE, CALIFORNIA

Thurs., Dec. 31, 1964

INA STINER, retired Porterville High School faculty member, will observe her 90th birthday on January 1 when relatives gather for a family reunion at her home on E street. Miss Stiner, several years ago, was named Porterville's Woman of the Year in appreciation for the work she has done in compiling and publishing historical information and pictures about the Porterville community, its old families, its var-

Quarter Horse Group Organizes For May Show

PORTERVILLE, Dec. 31 — Dan Mahnke was elected president of the Porterville Quarter horse Show group and initial plans were made for the 1965 show that will be held May 20 as a feature of the opening day of the Porterville fair, when interested people met Monday evening at the Teapot Dome cafe.

Other officers elected were: Guido Lombardi, vice president; Yvonne Beaver, secretary; Shirley Warden, recording secretary-treasurer; Glen Fink, working events; and Ray Holloway, publicity.

On the board of directors are: Ray Hunt, Bill Beaver, George Warden, Lester Weldon, and Russell Reece.

Objectives of the Porterville show, as stated by officers and directors, are "to preserve, maintain and improve the annual Porterville Quarter Horse show and to coordinate energy, and diversify responsibility to the end of bettering each show."

DUNGAN HEADS FARMER ASSN.

EXETER, Dec. 31 — John N. Dungan, Exeter farmer, has been reelected to his fifth consecutive term as chairman of the board of directors of the Tulare County Farmers association. Other officers are: Harry L. Swarts, of Lindsay, vice president; Andrew C. Pixton, Porterville, treasurer; and O. W. Fahrney, of Exeter, secretary.

1965 WILL BE BANNER YEAR FOR SPRINGVILLE COMMUNITY

SPRINGVILLE, Dec. 31 — Beginning of a new era of progress for the community of Springville may well occur in the year of 1965 as the $258,300 sewage disposal project that is now underway is completed.

Work will start January 4 on an $81,000 sewage disposal plant, to be located near the lower end of River Drive; underway now is the construction of outfall lines, completed on River and Pine Drive, and slated to get underway early in January up Leonard street from highway 190; through the center of town on highway 190; and north from the Soda Spring to the hospital area.

Carlos Gregg, chairman of the board of the Springville Public Utility district, says that the completion date for the total project is June 9, 1965.

Sewage disposal has been an increasingly difficult problem with growth of the Springville community. The new sewage disposal system is expected to "open the door" to further development in the community.

CHECKING HEALTH conditions in connection with sewage disposal at Springville are Carlos Gregg, center, chairman of the board of directors of the Springville Public Utility district that now has a $258,300 project under-

Editorial Comment

LET'S GET GOLF OUT OF THE RED

In view of a letter sent to Porterville business men by the building committee of the Porterville Golf association, we feel that several items should again be called to public attention.

Says one paragraph of the letter: "Although the golf course (Porterville municipal) was self supporting in 1960, the golfers asked the city to increase the green fees and to earmark the additional funds for a new clubhouse. To date this alone has amounted to over $20,000 above normal fees."

The inference here is that $20,000 should be kicking around in city coffers for a new clubhouse as a result of green fee increase.

But the facts are that it isn't. Councilmen increased fees to create added revenue for general maintenance and improvement of the golf course, not specifically for a new clubhouse.

It is true that in the year of 1960-61, the golf course showed a "profit" in that revenue was $20,251.45 compared to operating costs of $18,825.06, without any capital expenditure that year.

But in the three following years, 1961-62 through 1963-64, the golf course ran $21,683.35 in the red when operating costs plus capital improvement are compared to revenue.

During the period of 1945-46 through 1963-64, the golf course, by city records, has run in the red a total of $26,887.45; this does not include the approximately $11,000 that the city put up to match funds solicited by golfers when the golf course property was acquired by the city in the mid-1940s.

Regarding the current golf clubhouse project, the city is putting up $28,870; golfers have given the city $8,700. The clubhouse bid is $36,200; there are $1,370 worth of added items; bid on clubhouse construction is said to be on a "no profit" basis, which is interpreted in the golfers' letter to business men to be an additional $5,000 contribution consisting of what would be "normal profit."

Says the golfers' letter, "A good golf clubhouse is of tremendous value to the city."

With this we agree, but when the city's $28,870 is added to the total deficit figures of the golf course, the red ink will probably amount to something in excess of $55,000 come the end of the fiscal 1964-65 year, depending on how the golf course does in revenue vs. operating expense during this year.

One other fact should be recognized. In the four most recent years, 1960-61 through 1963-64, trend has been somewhat stable in revenue — somewhat under $21,000 for three years and just over $23,000 one year, but operating cost trend has been up — $18,825.06 in 1960-61, $17,503.99 in 1961-62, $19,307.16 in 1962-63 and $22,632.36 in 1963-64, plus a total of $26,921.84 in capital expenditure in those four years.

We hope these figures lay the off' walking ghost that the city golf course is paying its way.

In view of the fact that it is not, and in view of the fact that trend in the last four years has been toward an increasing deficit, we are of the opinion that the city council should instruct the city manager to make a thorough analysis of golf course operation, an analysis from which should come recommendations as to future operation policy that will put the golf course in the black.

We Only Heard

BY BILL RODGERS

IN A press release from the Federal Small Business administration we are told that the "uninterrupted 46 months of continued prosperity is largely responsible for the heavy demand for small business loans." . . . This confuses us no end. If business is so good why do business men have to turn to the Small Business administration, in fact, why does there need to be a federal agency handling business loans? Why don't those prospering business men get their money through regular commercial channels.

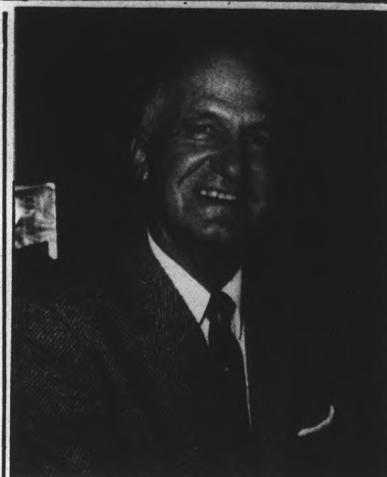

SOME DOG is always physically biting a postman just for pleasure, and some human being is always verbally biting the postman just because the season never closes on the guy who delivers the mail. Seldom does a dog waggle up to the postman and say, in his dog's way, "Friend, I think you're really the most, delivering mail every day to the fellow who feeds me." and seldom does a human being say to a postman, "Man, I don't see how you do it. You delivered over 3,000 pieces of mail to me during the year, and you picked up stacks of my mail to deliver to someone else, including those letters and cards my wife sends out with hand addresses that no one can read. Really, it's remarkable that you made only a couple of mistakes, which gives you a much smaller percentage of error than I can maintain in my own business. Not bad, man. And thanks." . . . Since dogs refuse to waggle up to postmen, and since people don't often say nice things about the postman, we will. "Thanks, Mr. Postman — and a Happy New Year to you." . . . Hey, call off them dogs. I didn't know they could read.

IF YOU watched the Cleveland Browns clobber the Baltimore Colts for the National Football league title, you may have also noticed a half-time show by the 160-piece all-Negro band from Florida A & M university. Performance of this group (the band, not the Colts) was tremendous, music-wise and marching-wise. In fact it was so good that we couldn't help but think there must be those enlightened folks who will realize that this sort of organization must be integrated — and thereby ruined.

There can be a rich payoff in extra harvest dollars as a result of a Coberly & Plumb nematode check of your soil.

If nematode treatment is called for, Coberly & Plumb will schedule a prompt application of Shell Nemagon or

Green Pea Aphid Cuts Yield In Alfalfa Field Tests

VISALIA, Dec. 31 — Resistance of alfalfa to the green pea aphid, not generally looked on as a problem insect, is going to be increasingly important to San Joaquin valley alfalfa growers, in the opinion of University of California Farm Advisor William R. Sallee, Tulare county, and O. D. McCutcheon of Kings county.

The farm advisors said the pea aphids appear to have knocked down yields by as much as three-fourths of a ton per acre in farm-size variety trials the two farm advisors conducted on Boswell company land near Corcoran.

Sallee and McCutcheon said their tests, now in the second year, showed considerable resistance to the pea aphid in one variety, Nevada Syn-T, a Lahontan selection by the USDA and Nevada Experiment Station; moderate tolerance in WL501, developed by the Waterman-Loomis Seed Company of Bakersfield; and slight tolerance

Steve Bly Adm. Assistant To Gordon Duffy

HANFORD, Dec. 31 — Gordon Duffy, Assemblyman-elect for Tulare and Kings counties, has announced the appointment of Steve Bly of Visalia as his administrative assistant.

Duffy said, "Bly will serve as a liaison during the legislative session in order to better serve the people of our district. It is an administrative assistant's job to keep the Assemblyman informed as to the day to day problems and needs of his district. It will also be Bly's job to inform the people of Kings and Tulare counties as to what is occurring at the Capitol when I cannot report directly."

Bly, 20, a recent College of the Sequoias graduate in agriculture, was active throughout both counties in the Duffy campaign as field director. Bly was born and raised on a farm at Ivanhoe, and attended Redwood High school.

CHAPEL CHIMES

By
Rev. N. J.
Thompson

Some 3,400 years ago, the patriarch Job asked: "Hast thou entered into the treasures of the snow? or hast thou seen the treasures of the hail?"

Men have been puzzled for centuries by Job's questions. What treasures could snow and hail contain? Now the microscope amazes men by revealing the delicate beauty and symmetry of the minute ice crystals known as snowflakes. The lovely geometric patterns of snowflakes were photographed by a scientist over a period of years. As he studied his 18,000 photographs, he was amazed to find that no two of the crystalline forms were exactly alike!

Treasures in the snow? Ranchers and cattlemen along the Sierra foothills in California readily agree with old Job. They bless the snow blanketing the mountain peaks, for it is worth its weight in gold. It brings life-giving streams to the dry valleys, and fills wells and dams that irrigate the crops and water the thirsty cattle.

Treasures in the snow and hail? Definitely, says Dr. Frank T. Shutt, a chemist with the Canadian Department of Agriculture.

After 17 years of research, Dr.

Shutt reported, "There is definite financial value to snow and hail. They bring to the land four kinds of chemical fertilizers — nitrates, nitrites, free ammonia, and albuminoid ammonia. During an entire season, these chemicals are deposited to the value of more than $14 per acre. Thus, a 100-acre farm would be enriched by $1,400 by the action of snow and hail."

Only a great, wise God can cause moisture to condense about a speck of dust in the air and create a beautiful snowflake. Only a God of love can make the fields fertile by showering upon them the treasures of snow and hail.

Sacramento Senate Scene

By Howard Way

State Senator, Tulare County

Another year has nearly passed and a new session of the California legislature is about to convene. The problems facing us are complex and of far-reaching importance. Our position of being the largest state in population also means that we are number one in challenging problems. Faced with reapportioning of the Senate, the session will be history-making. The actions taken will have a profound and lasting impact on the future of every Californian. Many of you have expressed, justifiably so, great concern that this reapportionment will concentrate control in the city areas. No doubt it could place unwarranted powers in the hands of a few. Inevitably it will place added responsibilities on each of us in the predominantly rural areas.

The already overburdened California taxpayer is face to face this year with the prospect of new tax burdens. This is largely because of legislation passed in the last two sessions in the field of welfare and education. We will be faced with a gap between income and outgo of about $200 million.

New taxes must be raised to meet this deficit, and since we are already a high tax state the problem of new revenues is very difficult. Sources being considered are increased sales tax, increased cigarette tax, increased income taxes, or a tax on food. It is also probable that the administration will again attempt to pass legislation calling for a withholding tax on personal income.

In spite of these, and other, problems facing Californians I would like it clearly understood that I am confident of the brightness of our future and the wisdom of Californians in finding workable solutions to them.

As 1964 draws to a close I would like to take this opportunity to wish all of you the brightest of holidays and best wishes for the coming year. I would like to thank those of you who have been so helpful about keeping me informed as to your opinions about state government. The 1965 session convenes January 4 for what will probably be a long session. Please continue to keep in close touch with me. My office in Exeter will remain open during the mornings at 124 South "E". Remember that I am no farther from you than your telephone, 592-3571, and I appreciate the opportunity to assist you with any problem.

PAST YEARS OF GROWTH AND OUTLOOK FOR YEARS AHEAD DISCUSSED BY F. R. WILCOX IN "RETIREMENT" TALK

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 31 — Making his final report as general manager of Sunkist Growers prior to his retirement the end of January, F. R. Wilcox told the board of directors of the citrus marketing cooperative at their annual meeting in Los Angeles that the total delivered value of sales by the organization during its 71st year of operation, ending October 31, 1964, was $233 million, up $11 million of the total; high quality citrus products produced in the two Sunkist processing plants $47 million.

Sunkist's fresh marketing costs averaged 9.2 cents per carton.

Reflecting a successful marketing season, Wilson told the directors that over $14 million covering marketing and advertising refunds, products pool payments and revolving funds had been distributed to member-shippers of the organization earlier this month.

Fresh Sunkist citrus shipments, including exports, were made up of 33.9 million cartons of oranges; 13.7 million cartons of lemons; 8.2 million cartons of grapefruit and 227,000 standard cartons of tangerines. This volume of just over 51 million cartons of fresh citrus was 18 percent greater than that of the 1962-63 season.

Turning directly to the export market, Wilcox noted that that channel accounted for the sale of 7.9 million cartons of oranges, lemons and grapefruit to the markets of Europe and the Orient.

"The most dramatic export news of the year came in early May," he said, "when the Japanese government removed license restrictions on imports to that nation. We are planning an intensive sales and advertising campaign for the 1964-65 season to maintain and further develop the potential of this preferred market where the Sunkist name has earned an enviable and unequalled reputation for quality and integrity."

The products sales division of Sunkist had sales totaling $46.5 million for the year, comprised of $31.5 million for orange and grapefruit products, and $15 million for lemon products. This was the largest annual gross dollar volume in the history of orange and grapefruit products sales, exceeding that of the previous year on those two varieties by $6.5 million.

Wilcox reported that four houses joined Sunkist in the 1963-64 season; three of which were newly completed. Two of the new houses are located in Central California and one in Yuma, Arizona.

"One of the most forward looking steps we took during the year was to intensify our own research efforts toward mechanically-assisted harvesting systems," he said. "In July, we started a three-year program under the full-time direction of a project leader who was employed for this specific purpose."

Looking to the future, Wilcox concluded his report by stating that the California-Arizona citrus industry is resurging strongly with thousands of new acres being planted in many producing districts. "The citrus industry will continue to be vital to the economy of the two western states for many years to come," he said.

The board of directors honored Wilcox, who is closing a career of more than 26 years with the organization, the last seven in which he served as general manager, by a unanimous resolution of appreciation for his outstanding achievements to the organization and the citrus industry.

Safety record on California freeways is nearly three times better than on average roads and streets.

CALIFORNIA WEED CONTROL MEETING IS SET FOR MID-JANUARY IN FRESNO

By Vincent H. Schweers
Farm Advisor

VISALIA, Dec. 31 — The 17th Annual California Weed conference will be held January 19 to 21 in the Hacienda motel in Fresno, with the meeting open to anyone interested in weed control. Opening is set for 1:00 p.m. on the 19th.

The program will open with the president's address by James Dewlen of Amchem Products, followed by O. W. Fillerup, guest speaker, who will discuss California Farm labor — the prospects for 1965.

Other topics on the afternoon session will be Development of a Pesticide Chemical, Costs and Losses of Weeds, Future of Weed Science: Education and Employment Opportunities, State Regulations on Weed Control, Soil Residues of Herbicides, Equipment and Application Techniques, Coverage and Drift of Aerial Applications, and Drift Reduction by Application Techniques and Low Drift Formulations.

The morning session on January 20 will include discussion on weed control in trees, vines, cotton, sugar beets, alfalfa, clover, rice and one talk on roadside and special week control equipment.

The afternoon session will center on weed control with flame equipment. Flame and incorporation equipment will be available for viewing. An evening session will cover What's New in Weed Control.

The Thursday morning session will feature Weed Control in Tomatoes and Lettuce, Current Toxic Range Plants, Brush Control, Range Improvement through Weed Control, Surfactant Effects, New Frontier and General Weed Control Principles.

Growers and others interested in weed control are invited to attend any or all the sessions.

BECKMAN MOVES AHEAD WITH LOCAL PLANS

PORTERVILLE, Dec. 31—Beckman Instruments, Inc. this week picked up its option on 15 acres of land owned by Ted Cornell just south of Highway 190 and west of south Main street as site for a new 44,000 square foot plant that is expected to be in operation by summer.

Announcement of the transaction came from Earl Janson, vice president of manufacturing for Beckman Instruments. The company has an option on an additional 80 acres of Cornell property.

Beckman Instruments is now operating in temporary quarters at Olive and Main, with 75 local people on the payroll and additional people being added at a rate of about 20 per month, according to Walter Misko, general manager in Porterville. It is expected the company will be employing about 160 persons when the move is made to the new, permanent plant.

Teague Speaker At Porterville Chamber Banquet

PORTERVILLE, Dec. 31 — William Teague, vice president of Pepperdine college, will appear as principal speaker at annual Porterville chamber of commerce banquet, January 30, in the Porterville high school cafeteria. Master of ceremonies will be Jim Hanson, Porterville business man who is now serving as district governor of Rotary International.

Chairman of ticket sales committee is Boyd Eckard; Job's Daughters and members of the Junior Women's club will be in charge of tables and coffee service; the Porterville Garden club will handle decorations.

ANTON SIMONICH FARMER OF YEAR

TULARE, Dec. 21 — Anton Simonich, a native of Porterville, has been named the "Farmer of the Year" by the Tulare Kiwnais club.

Foster Edwards

the drums; and a couple of cousins — Rose, the piano; and Winnie, the flute.

Foster chose to stay with music. At the age of 16 years he put his own band into the Visalia Ballroom and also played jobs in other southern San Joaquin valley towns. In 1945 he got taken by the Army, but he continued in music, being assigned to the 361st AGF band at Fort Knox. It was here that his interest, and ability, in writing music began to develop.

Hitting civilian life again in 1948, he played with several California bands; took a shot at photography with Brother Jeff in Porterville; but, after a year or so, got back into music with his own small band on the Tulare-Kings county circuit.

In 1950 he "went west" to Montana, stayed there nine months, then got on with the touring Jack Fine band. He later played with Dick Johnson at the Capital Inn in Sacramento, then went to the Bill Clifford band at the Riverside Hotel in Reno — and it's been Reno ever since.

He took his own seven-piece band into the Golden Hotel in 1958; in the following years he played top Reno spots, including the Riverside, the Mapes, the Holiday, and Harrah's Club.

In 1962, Foster moved his own band into the new Sparks Nugget Circus Room, and immediately wrote the tune that is attaining fame and recognition, "Bertha's Waltz", to accompany the elephant act that is a feature of this night spot.

And he's been in the Circus Room ever since, as band director, composer, arranger, and sax man.

The album that he has now released is a fine bit of music, some of it excellent music, reflecting a bit of Negro influence, of which there is no better influence in the world of modern music.

"What's Next?" was recorded by John Ward, the sound engineer for the Circus Room, in the Circus Room. And it's something of an Edwards' production. Music composed, orchestrated, arranged and conducted by Foster S. Edwards; produced and directed by Foster S. Edwards; album design, layout and editing by J. J. Edwards (his wife); but at this point some photographer named Bob Fairer gets into the act, which, of course weakens the Edwards' approach, since Glenn or Jeff might just as well have pinned the Edwards tab on this phase of the production also.

There's more that might be told, but for verification of what has been told, stop by John Ascuaga's Circus Room at the Sparks Nugget when you are in Reno.

And again we say to Brother Jeff, we refuse to mention that the Edwards Album is for sale at Edwards' Studio and at Byron Wades' emporium of Magnificent Magnavox.

Unless, of course, there is a bit of payola kicking around some place.

Lapidary Class Enrollment Is Being Accepted

PORTERVILLE, Dec. 31 — Installation of equipment for class room work has been completed and "rock hounds" of the area will be able to enroll in an adult school class in Lapidary when second semester starts after the first of the year.

Interested persons should contact the adult school office at Porterville college. Classes will be held in Room 14, D unit buildings, on the Porterville high school campus; classes are scheduled,

Paul Mankins Speaks On Safety At Rockford Meet

ROCKFORD, Dec. 31 — At the regular monthly business meeting for the Rockford 4-H club Paul Mankins of the S. Calif. Edison Co. spoke on "Safety for the Christmas Season", stressing the safety points with the trees and lighting. He also showed a safety movie, "Paradise Valley" the views of what can happen on the farm, when people are careless.

Carol Briano, president, opened the meeting, pointing out to the members that the annual County talent contest will be held January 16 at the Exeter High school, also that members should be making plans for county demonstrations.

Mark Cameron reported on his rabbit project, while Linda Mills, Clara Clark, Janice Buchak, Virginia and Annette Hochuli reported on her goat project for the needy, telling the group that the goat she raised had been sent to Mexico.

Linda Mills, community project chairman, announced that members were preparing a food basket for a needy family during the Holiday Season, also members approved major project for the year as a project to raise money to help purchase a new ambulance for the town of Pixley, where many of the Rockford 4-H members live.

Mrs. Clarence Valine, community leader, reported on the poultry project which has been revised for this year.

At the close of the meeting refreshments of coffee, punch, hot chocolate and cookies were served by Carol Briano, Sandra Valine, Clara Clark, Janice Buchak, Marylin Billiou and Jamie Lunstad.

There are now more than 4,000 shopping centers with parking facilities in the United States.

starting at 7 p.m., on Monday and Wednesday evenings; in charge of the class will be Mrs. Edna Gibson.

NEW YEAR

Porterville folks will vote a bond issue to get the elementary school system over the hump.

There will be big doin's at the Porterville Fair, the Porterville Roundup, the Springville-Sierra rodeo, and Veterans' Homecoming. Porterville city population will pass the 10,000 mark.

Real estate developments in the Tule River watershed will continue to jump.

New industry will move into the general area.

Porterville will have a new municipal golf course clubhouse.

There will be contests for most county elective offices.

Porterville's new numbering system will be completed.

And, in addition, who knows? But the shape of things to come in the year 1965 will be a most interesting and challenging shape to behold.

Quarter Horse

Discussion centered around the possibility of expanding show events to increase interest.

In past years the Porterville show has drawn top horses from throughout the West.

Springville 4-H Club Enjoys Christmas Party

SPRINGVILLE, Dec. 31 — The Springville 4-H club went Christmas caroling at the Tulare County hospital in Springville the evening of December 22. This has become an annual event for the Springville club after many years of caroling.

Following the caroling, a party was held at the Methodist Fellowship hall. Preceding the exchange of gifts, games were played including an orange race and a bean relay. Each person bringing a gift, received one. Then punch and cookies were served. Approximately 50 members and guests were in attendance.

Regular project meetings will start again shortly after the New Year. Such events as the County Demonstration Field day, the 4-H fair in Tulare, the County Dress revue, and 4-H camp are only a few of the prospects for the coming year. The next monthly meeting will be January 12, 1965, and club business will be carried on with renewed vigor for the coming year, club officers state.
